

EDITORIAL FOREWORD

Dear Colegues!

I am glad to welcome you again on behalf of the magazine's editorial board.

The war in Ukraine continues, and in connection with this, the editorial office temporarily cannot work in normal mode. Nevertheless, before this release, we managed to ensure the completion of the editorial process for three articles. The following manuscripts are waiting for their turn. In addition, our joint efforts will publish the collective monograph "David and Goliath: problems of security and sustainable development of Ukraine in the conditions of war" next month, so I invite you to follow the news of the Publication System of the Lviv University of Business and Law.

You will find articles devoted to war, peace and sustainable development in this issue. Oleksandra Kalmykova investigated the role of international law in ensuring human rights in wartime. Oleksandr Shevchenko conducted a thorough study of the administration and stabilisation of the Ukrainian stock market. Finally, Nora Francis Inyang, Ubong Edem Effiong, and Michael Akpan Udofia analysed the degree of influence of industry on the sustainable growth of the Nigerian economy. The authors are from Turkey, Ukraine and Nigeria. We accepted three manuscripts for this issue, and five were rejected due to non-compliance with the journal's goals; the acceptance rate at this stage was 37,5%.

We thank our authors and readers for their continued support. We hope for a quick end to the war in Ukraine and the world's return to the sustainable development paradigm.

I wish you all a peaceful sky over head!

Glory to Ukraine! Слава Україні!

Sincerely,

Juliusz Piwowski, DSc, Professor,

Editorial Board Chairman
